

Race Rocks Ecological Reserve

TAG ARCHIVES: COMPOSTING TOILET

EXCERPT FROM "HUMPBACK WHALE"

HTTP://WWW.RACEROCKS.CA/WP/TAG/COMPOSTING-TOILET/

POSTED ON SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 2014 BY NICK TOWNLEY

The bio-drum and collection chamber of the new Centrex 3000 composting toilet in the Ecoguardian's House

Over the weekend, Jeff completed the installation of the new composting toilet in the Ecoguardian's house. It's a big step up from the humanure system that was in place before. The new waterless system has a unit in the basement, directly below the toilet, that decomposes the human waste and only needs to be emptied once a year. An identical unit is going to be installed in the Marine Science Centre, once some minor wall demolition happens to accommodate unit in the basement.